

Volunteers begin work on Niles Teen Center expansion project

Bridget Doyle/triblocal.com staff reporter 06/12/09

On Thursday, June 11th, volunteers from Home Depot and Niles Teen Center staff began work on the newly acquired space for the expansion project.

"There was not enough space to serve the needs of the kids," said Mark Williams, Director and Youth Coordinator of the Niles Teen Center. "They were falling all over each other. We're hoping this new space will aid the children in not only having fun, but also make room for kids to get their homework done."

The new attachment is slated to become a game room, and will thus create space for a computer lab and a separate study and homework area. The grand opening of the Niles Teen Center's expansion is slated for late August or early September.

Home Depot volunteers help paint the new expansion of the Niles Teen Center in the Golf Mill Mall on Thursday, June 11th.

Mark Williams, Director and Youth Coordinator of the Niles Teen Center also partook in painting the newly expanded room.