

Monday, June 13, 2011

Center, Mall, Library All Team For Ice Cream

Library uses sweet treat at Teen Center to entice people to sign up for summer reading program.

Families, kids and teens visited the Niles Teen Center early Friday evening, and found five members of the Niles Library staff handing out small gifts and promising bigger ones.

The summer reading program, "One World" is open to kids, teens and adults and kids get credit toward prizes with each hour of reading.

Once signed up, kids stepped further into the Teen Center, where Angelika Jurczyk and Monika Kalicki of Golf Mill's marketing department were dishing out ice cream with syrup and sprinkles.

Niles Library staff visit the Niles Teen Center to sign up kids for the summer reading program. Credit Pam DeFiglio

A mom and kids learn about the library's summer reading program.

Debbie Graham, from left, Clara Sheffer, Mary Miller and Donna Block, all of the Niles Library, help people at a table set up at the Niles Teen

Center. Credit Pam DeFiglio

Angelika Jurczyk, left, and Monika Kalicki dish out ice cream for kids who signed up for the library's summer reading program. Credit Pam DeFiglio

Seconds, please. With chocolate syrup. Credit Pam DeFiglio

Sally, left, and Sarah Tahir show off their ice cream sundaes. Credit Pam DeFiglio